START UP COSTS:

Increased the applicable percentage on the existing start-up credit from 50% to 100% for plans with less than 50 employees.

Employers with generally up to 50 employees are eligible for an annual tax credit for three years equal to 100% of certain costs paid or incurred in connection with starting a retirement plan, up to an annual cap.

The cap is the greater of: (1) $500; or (2) the lesser of (a) $250 for each non-highly compensated employee who is eligible to participate in the plan or (b) $5,000.

NEW CONTRIBUTION CREDIT

In the case of defined contribution plans, the provision provides an additional credit equal to the “applicable percentage” of the amount contributed by the eligible employer on behalf of employees who have FICA wages of $100,000 or less, up to a per-employee cap of $1,000. Elective deferrals do not count as employer contributions for this purpose.

Contributions with respect to employees who receive FICA wages from the employer for the taxable year in excess of $100,000 are not taken into account for purposes of determining the credit. This $100,000 threshold will be indexed annually for inflation beginning in 2024.

The applicable percentage is 100% in the first and second years, 75% in the third year, 50% in the fourth year, 25% in the fifth year, and 0% in any taxable year thereafter. Thus, no credit is available after the fifth year. See the next page for a high-level example of a how the credit may work.

The full additional credit is limited to employers with 50 or fewer employees and phased out for employers with between 51 and 100 employees in the preceding taxable year. In that case, the applicable percentage is reduced by the product of the applicable percentage that would otherwise apply, multiplied by 2% for each employee in the preceding taxable year in excess of 50 employees.

The provision also makes clear that no deduction is allowed for the portion of the credit based on employer contributions. Additional guidance may impact how and when this credit can be utilized.

The provision applies for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2022.
