Add flexibility to your plan

Protect your family and help cover potential long-term care expenses

While life may not always go the way you planned, you can put a strategy in place that will let you adapt to the unknowns and help secure your future and that of your family. This strategy can help protect your family and help make sure they have the financial means to continue living the lifestyle they're accustomed to if you're no longer around. It can also give you the flexibility to pay for long-term care costs you may have, making it less likely that you need to drain your assets to pay for such care.

Will you need long-term care?

- With people living longer than ever these days, it's no wonder nearly 70% of people turning 65 will need some type of long-term care in their lives.<sup>2</sup>
- Typical long-term care services include help with the six basic activities of daily living — eating, bathing, dressing, toileting, transferring (walking) and continence.

Protect your family and protect your assets and savings from potential long-term care costs by combining life insurance and coverage for long-term care costs in one policy.

- Add flexibility — Add the Long-Term Care Services<sup>SM</sup> Rider<sup>1</sup>, and you can tap into your policy's death benefit to help fund your qualifying long-term care need on a dollar-for-dollar basis.
